THIRTEEN HURT IN AUTOMOBILES OVER WEEKEND

Five of 13 In Two Cars
Injured in Collision
Near Damascus

AUTO GOES OVER BANK AT GUILFORD

Cleveland Car Hits Truck
At North Benton
Crossing

Thirteen persons suffered minor injuries in three traffic accidents investigated last Sunday and this morning by Salem state highway patrolmen.

Thirteen persons were riding in two automobiles which collided on Route 62 at Damascus at 9 p. m. Sunday. Five were hurt.

The cars were driven by Joseph Demeter, 18, of R. D. 1, Hanover, and Glenn Raub, 27, of Garfield. Demeter's car is reported to have struck the rear of the other vehicle when Raub slowed down.

The injured persons riding with Demeter were injured and included Mrs. Hazel Hall, 50, bruised; Melvin Hall, 4, slight head injury and bruises; the driver, himself, who had a cut lip; Julius Demeter, Jr., lacerated jaw; Elizabeth Demeter, 15, arm injury and shock. Physicians treated the injured.

Ruby Hall, 15, Erma Hall, 6, and Audrey Hall, 8, were unhurt, as were Raub's wife, Ann, 24, and their daughter, Janet, 4.

Five Salem persons were injured when the car in which they were riding, driven by Howard Green of Elm st., went over an embankment at Guilford lake and overturned, at 3:30 p. m. yesterday.

Green's wife, Virginia, suffered cuts, bruises and contusions and was removed to the Central Clinic. Her mother, Mrs. Minnie Castoe, suffered from shock. The Green's three children were also injured by cuts and scratches.

E. Palestine Man Hurt
Robert Morris, 24, of East Palestine, a meat salesman, suffered a broken right leg and a deep cut over his left eye when his automobile skidded and struck the Elkton bridge abutment on a road east of Lisbon at 6 p. m. Saturday. He was brought to the Central Clinic.

A truck stopped on the highway probably saved two Cleveland women from hitting a train at North Benton crossing, Route 14, at 6:45 a. m. today, state patrolmen pointed out.

The truck, which had halted for the passing train, was hit by a car driven by Miss Betty Jane Benjamin, 18, of Cleveland, who said her vision was obscured by fog.

She received an abrasion of the right knee and lower left back. Her mother, Mrs. Rose Benjamin, 57, received a sprained right wrist, abrasions of the left knee and elbow and contusions of the chest. R. F. Schor of Akron was in charge of the truck.

Levy On Excess Profits Is Requested By Roosevelt

Asks Congress for "Steeply Graduated" Levy Applicable to All "Without Discrimination"

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 1.—President Roosevelt asked congress today to enact a "steeply graduated excess profits tax" applicable to all individuals and corporate organizations "without discrimination."

The text of the President's message follows:

"We are engaged in a great national effort to build up our national defenses to meet any and every potential attack.

"We are asking even our humblest citizens to contribute their might. It is our duty to see that the burden is equitably distributed, according to ability to pay so that a few do not gain from the sacrifices of the many.

"I, therefore, recommend to the congress the enactment of a steeply graduated excess profits tax, to be applied to all individuals and all corporate organizations without discrimination.

Mr. Roosevelt did not estimate how much revenue an excess profits levy might yield. House Majority Leader Rayburn, who attended the White House conference which preceded the issuance of the President's message, said, however, that the tax would be along the lines of one levied in World War days.

The tax described would be both a revenue producer and a measure to hold down profits on war time business.

Too Much Rainfall
Is Chief Worry Now
To County Farmers

LISBON, July 1.—For many years drouths and lack of moisture for crops have worried farmers of Columbiana county, but not so this year says County Agent Floyd Lowery. In fact, he points out, conditions are just reversed, with the farmers harassed by excessive rainfall. Mildew and scab, dreaded grain diseases, are also worrying the farmers, Lowery stated, and fruits, especially cherries, apples and peaches are developing very slowly in the county orchards.

Wheat has been affected to some extent and will be cut later than usual this year as it is not maturing properly, while oats, late in planting are very short and in many instances turning yellow due to the excessive rain. The hay crop is very good but farmers are having trouble harvesting and curing it between rains. Corn, which was also late in being planted is doing fairly well but needs more warm nights.

Farmers were first delayed in the preparation of the ground and the planting of crops, due to the almost idly rainfall, and now have difficulty in controlling the weeds in potato and corn fields and in garden patches. An estimate of the damage to crops by the exception- ally wet weather cannot be deter- mined until after the harvest, but is expected to amount to several thousand dollars in this county.

ARMY GEARS UP DEFENSE PLAN; TAXES BOOSTED

Intensified Training For Officers and Men Is
LaunchedNEW FISCAL YEAR
INCREASES FUNDSNew Tax Levy Schedule
Becomes Effective
Today(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 1.—The army geared up its defense program to higher speed today, while consumers started doing their bit by paying higher taxes on beer, liquor and cigarettes.

Intensive specialized training began for selected army officers and men. Numerous reserve officers, mostly youthful lieutenants, reported for active duty with troops, and long-deferred promotions took effect for hundreds of regular army officers.

New Funds Available
At the same time, new funds became available for the purchase of arms, and the navy needed only President Roosevelt's approval of speedup legislation to order work started on 50 warships in addition to nearly 100 already in various stages of construction.

Although the start of the fiscal year on July 1 usually signals fresh activity, preliminaries to the defense expansion voted by congress already are in full swing.

Congress released extraordinary defense appropriations for use as they were approved in recent weeks and thus made possible an advance start on the augmented training of army, navy and civilian fliers and the placing of record contracts for warships, other weapons and supplies.

To help provide the $5,661,910,337 voted for defense in the new fiscal year—with possible more billions still to come—new defense taxes went into effect.

"Smoke," Liquor Levies Up
The taxes, which were expected to affect the retail price, took effect last midnight on stocks-on-hand and future manufactures of cigarettes (one-half cent a pack- age), liquor (75 cents a gallon) and beer ($1 a barrel).

Movie patrons started paying a 10 per cent admission tax on all tickets costing 21 cents or more. Along with other taxes on toilet preparations, automobiles, radios, refrigerators, matches, electric en- ergy, gasoline, lubricating oil, play- ing cards and club dues, these lev- ies are expected to bring in about $475,000,000.

The remainder of the $1,000,000,000 of new revenue expected from the defense taxes will come from higher income taxes payable next March 15.

Rotary To Install Officers Tuesday

C. D. Gow will be installed presi- dent of the Salem Rotary club at the organization's meeting at noon tomorrow in the Memorial building. He succeeds Ray Pearce.

Other officers include: Vice presi- dent, L. Frank Smith; treasurer, Fred Emery; secretary, C. S. Hollis. Directors are Dr. F. R. Crowe, Ray Pearce and Floyd McKee.

Following the installation rites, the club will hear a talk by Wil- liam Cope concerning the work of the local office of the state un- employment compensation com- mission. David Bevan will be program chairman.

Everett Jackson Installed As Presi- dent; Delegates Attending Convention

Officers for the next six months were elected and installed by Local No. 42, N. B. O. P., in the K. of P. hall Friday night.

They are: President, Everett Jack- son, succeeding Richard Reedy; vice president, Fred Shaffer; recording secretary, Carey Jackson; financial secretary, Harry Vincent; defense secretary, Roy Ripple; treasurer, Bruce Cope; statistician, John Ehr- hart; inspector, Miss Freda Fritz- man; guard, Mrs. John Walters; trustees (for 18 months), Roy Bals- ley and (for six months), Arthur King.

The installation was conducted by William Bailey of Stockton, Calif., a member of the union here 37 years ago. Mr. Bailey visited here enroute to California. He and his son, David Bailey of Sebring, were guests at the meeting.

Mr. Bailey gave an interesting talk on the industries and living conditions in California.

The local delegates are in At- lantic City today attending open- ing sessions of the N. B. O. P. con- vention. The group includes Rich- ard Reedy, Harry Vincent, Mrs. John Walters and Roy Balsley.

Extinguish Blaze

LISBON, J. July 1.—The Lisbon volunteer fire department was called out at 11:15 a. m. Sunday by a fire in an automobile in the Ford garage on N. Nelson ave. The blaze, origin of which is unknown, was confined to the upholstery in the front seat of the car, and was soon extinguished by the firemen with the aid of chemicals. The car was the property of the C. O. Hawk Motor company.

GERMANS CLAIM
NEW BASES FOR IMPENDING WARAction Discounted, However, Because Islands
Had Been VacatedHUNGARY SENDS TROOPS TO FRONTMove Seen As Nazi Counter to Russia's Rumanian Invasion(By Associated Press)
German troops held British soil today for the first time in the war—capturing the English-owned channel islands of Guernsey and Jersey, about 90 miles from Plym- outh—to gain still another base for the projected assault on the island kingdom itself.

The channel islands, virtually emptied of inhabitants a week or more ago, lie southwest of German-occupied Cherbourg.

"Victory" Discounted
The Germans said the occupation, long since discounted because the islands were left defenseless, was carried out by a "coup de main" of the German air force—apparently meaning the troops were landed by plane or parachute.

The seizure places Hitler's forces in no closer position for an in- vasion of Britain than they were already at Calais and other points.

In the war-torn Balkans, Hun- gary mobilized troops on the Ru- manian frontier and called for re- servists throughout the nation while an official Hungarian news agency declared "the general impression is that Rumania is on the point of collapse."

The Hungarian mobilization was seen as a thinly-veiled German counter to Russia's invasion of Ru- mania, a vital source of supplies for Germany.

This interpretation of the Hun- garian move—in direct contrast to the theory that Hungary wants only to regain territory lost to Ru- mania in the World War—found support in a Hungarian foreign office communique.

"Historic Mission"
The communique stressed that Hungary's "historic mission" is to defend "western Latin civilization against any attacks coming from the east"—such, for example, as an attack from Russia.

Hungary claims the full support of both Germany and Italy for any march into Rumania in the event Russia's armies overrun the limits of ceded territory—Bessarabia and Northern Bucovina—established in the agreement between Rumania and Russia.

Frontier "incidents" between Ru- manian and Hungarian troops were said to have prompted the Hun- garian mobilization.

Evidence of fierce fighting be- tween Rumanian troops and Red army invaders came to light today as trainloads of Rumanian wounded arrived in Bucharest following re- ported clashes with Soviet forces on the Prut river.

The Russians were described as "raining" parachute troops on Ru- manian soil and landing bay tanks from Soviet "kangaroo" planes.

Nazi ire was reported aroused by Russian seizure of German-owned materials in Bessarabia.

Guard Materials, Supplies
Berlin officials, while diplo- matically scouting any possibility of a German-Russian clash, said Germany's main interest was to prevent any disruption of her supply of vital materials—oil for her mechanized armies and foodstuffs—from Rumania.

Nevertheless, the Rumanian gov- ernment already has appealed to Hitler to make Russia live up to last week's ultimatum agreement for ceded territory, thereby giving the Nazi fuhrer an excuse, if he wants one, for marching into Ru- mania against Russia.

In any event, Rumania appeared the loser—threatened by an axis-supported Hungarian invasion to stop Russia and by a possible Ger- man move to safeguard Nazi inter- ests in Rumania.

U. S. IS FACING
WAR DILEMMASWhat If Hitler Wants To Buy Food and Materials Here?

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

The United States shortly may have on its hands two new dilem- mas growing out of the European war, and both involving indirect but nevertheless powerful aid to the Berlin-Rome entente in its conflict with Britain.

They are the questions of (1) dealing with the famine which al- ready is threatening Europe, and (2) what we are to do if and when Herr Hitler has cracked the British blockade and demands American food and supplies on the cash and carry basis.

Hunger Is Seen
That the old world, and especially the many countries which have suffered invasion, is heading straight into a terrible food short- age is the consensus of observers on both sides of the Atlantic. In- deed, hunger already has appeared in numerous localities, including Belgium.

Former President Hoover, speak- ing from the background of his great experience in directing Euro- pean relief in the World War, said the other day that Europe is threatened with "the most disas- trous famine in history."

"I was closely associated with Mr. Hoover's relief headquarters in London in the last war, and know something of his vast expe- rience in assaying situations such as are now being rapidly created. When he concurs with the view that Europe is approaching hun- ger, it is something to make us sit up and take notice."

The situation which this country will have to meet if Germany should attempt to take advantage of the "cash and carry" privileges, is summed up in the following ques- tion which has been laid before me in a letter:

"With control of the French At- lantic ports, the axis powers will be able to trade directly with the United States, as well as Latin America. They will certainly be privileged to take advantage of the "cash and carry" provisions of the neutrality act just as well as have the Allies."

What Will U. S. Do?
"While it undoubtedly is true that vast preponderant sentiment of the people of the United States would be averse to dealing with Ger- many and Italy in any way to help them in waging war, what would this nation want to do in the mat- ter of selling them raw materials, gas and oil, and even war supplies they might want, if they should seek to run the British blockade?"

When a fellow gets a query like that flung at him, he begins to realize the sort of thing that Sec- retary of State Cordell Hull gets shoved across his desk at him right along. I'm sorry to bother the sec- retary with this one, but it really is in his department and not mine.

Hours of fishing are from 4 a. m. to 9 p. m. and will be strictly en- forced, deputy game wardens point- ed out.

THE PLATFORM

THE Republican platform, produced after unusual deliberation, contains one plank which everybody wants to look at and some two dozen others will be inspected by interested minorities.

The big plank is foreign policy. The resolution committee hewed it out of one of the toughest situations ever confronting a political party—the threat of totalitarian aggression against the only democracy not already crushed or in imminent danger.

The committee proposed and the convention promptly approved a declaration that the Republican party is opposed to involving the United States in foreign war. In the same breath, the party declared itself in favor of making the sky limit on national defense and for upholding the Monroe doctrine. This raises the question of what a foreign war is. Would conflict in Central America be a foreign war?

Perhaps the resolution committee and the delegates know what the plank would mean in any given situation. It may be foreseen, incidentally, that the Democrats in their convention likewise will stand opposed to involving the United States in foreign war—and will explain that New Deal foreign policy, whatever critics may say, has not been leading the country in that direction.

The weakness of the Republican plank on war is, therefore, its failure to specify what should be done to keep the country from being involved in foreign war. The platform objects to explosive utterances and presidential action without authorization of congress, but it lays down no general policy for preventing involvement. Granted that President Roosevelt may have made remarks and instigated action which are questionable, it does not follow that reform on his part would insulate the United States against involvement in a foreign war.

The plank is not without strength, nevertheless. It will have the effect of serving notice on the Roosevelt administration that the opposition reserves the right to question anything which smacks of involvement. It will open the war issue to debate. It will give all Americans who think Mr. Roosevelt is going too far in trying to influence the outcome of the war in Europe a rallying point. It will demonstrate—and perhaps this is most important—the impossibility of reducing to a simple statement anything so complex as adjustment to a revolution.

THE PUBLIC has been curious about the function of a party platform ever since the winning party in 1932 chucked its platform into the Washington city dump without apparent damage to its prestige.

A platform provides a foundation of principle for party unity and a declaration of purpose for campaign purposes. A party may get away with junking one platform, but in 1936 the Democrats, having learned which way Mr. Roosevelt was taking them, had no choice but to accept his substitute and stand on it.

The Republican platform's text bears scrutiny as a public document revealing the shape of political thought. It calls for a return to familiar principles while retaining, in revised form, some of the new methods instituted since 1932. New Deal managed economy would be abandoned. The federal relief Colossus would be broken into 48 parts. The labor relations act and the securities and exchange act would be revised in the light of experience with their administration and effect. The pretext of soil conservation to conceal production control would be abandoned for soil conservation alone. Agriculture and employment would be boosted by revitalization of enterprise; pump priming would be discontinued.

Fiscal matters would be restored to a national basis, repudiating the tricks-with-mirrors operations which have characterized them here and abroad during most of the last decade. Tariff protection would be reestablished, government competition reduced, civil service strengthened.

HAND OF SHOWDOWN

There is no law compelling the Ford Co. to produce aviation equipment for Great Britain in connection with manufacture of equipment for the United States. Henry Ford is entirely within his legal rights in stating that he will make such equipment only for the United States government. He likewise is safely within his moral rights.

Apparently, the national defense commission's desire to place one large order, combining this country's and Great Britain's needs, has been the sole cause of the commission's decision to seek "cooperation" elsewhere. There is no sign of ill feeling. The Ford Co. points out that it still stands ready to follow through on its founder's promise to go into mass production of airplanes for national defense.

Mr. Ford will be criticized for his policy, but criticism is an old story in his tempestuous career. It is not the first hand of showdown he has played under pressure; he has been dealt out and dealt in a good many times. What his exact reasons may be for not wanting to build war equipment for Britain are not disclosed; his critics may be depended on, of course, to think of the most damaging possibilities. It's entirely possible that Mr. Ford figures the United States itself should have whatever aviation equipment it can produce, which is something to think about.

BILLIONS FOR DEFENSE

Rumors of another huge defense appropriation seem to call for a recapitulation.

The President's budget message last January asked for $1,823,000,000 for defense. On May 17 this was followed by a request for $1,182,000,000 plus $272,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30.

On May 29 the country heard that $750,000,000 more would be asked for, and on May 30 congress actually was asked to appropriate $1,000,000,000. Before congress could vote to do this, the request was increased to $1,706,000,000.

On June 18 a bill for an appropriation of another $1,000,000,000 was introduced in the house and before action could be taken Admiral Stark requested that it be increased to $4,000,000,000. If the total of these sums—$8,983,000,000—now is to be doubled, as intimated, the United States would have a national defense bill of approximately $18,000,000,000, and even Pollyanna would have to admit that's only a starter for a nation determined to become so strong it can't be conquered.

THE STARS SAY:

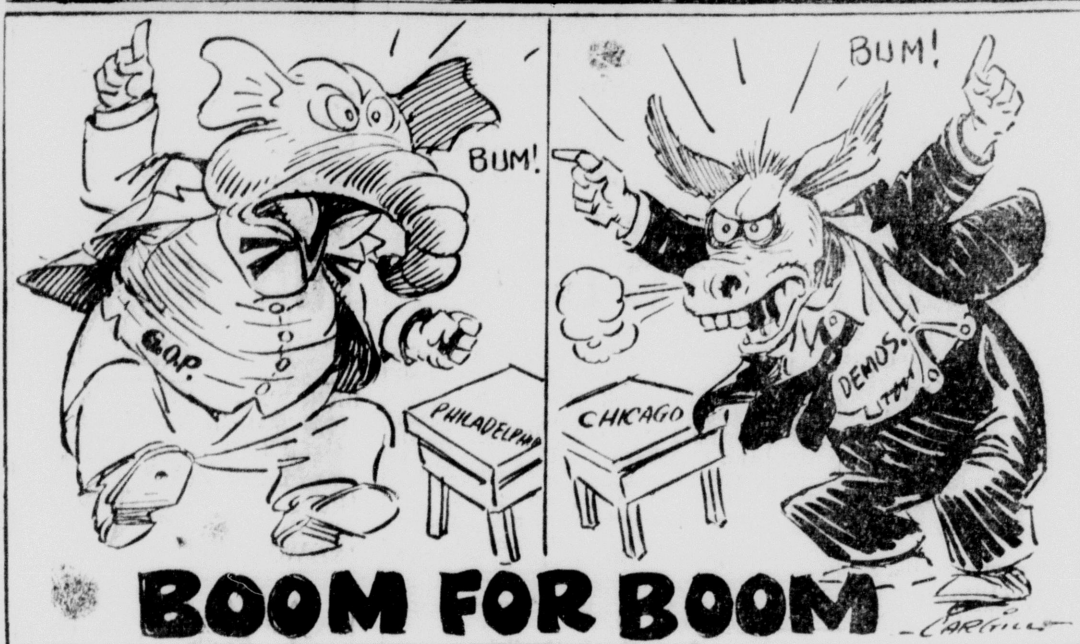

For Tuesday, July 2.

ALL AFFAIRS, business and private, are due to move at high tempo on this day, judging by the lunar and the mutual aspects. In fact, there may be much drastic action as well as commotion and excitement, with the forces and faculties spurred to decisive initiative in whatever channels the aims may be focussed upon. New projects are under progressive urges, with the financial support of both friends, relatives and those in position to further promotion. All pertaining to writings, publication, communication and kindred interests move at lively pace and flourish. Social group work thrives.

Those whose birthday it is may expect an unusually lively year, with new projects and interests moving at swift pace to high levels of achievement. Particularly favored will be all in which writings, publicity, correspondence, travel and the affairs of the young are involved, with social affiliations and desirable companionship proving gratifying as well as lucrative. Fresh slants in which the intellect and imagination are put to work are under splendid impetus for success.

A child born on this day may have much versatility and creative ability, with success and recognition from those in high places bringing much joy and gratification. The intellectual and imaginative faculties are particularly keen.

Salt Water Itch Affects Novice Bathers In Ocean

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IN THE REGION of southern ocean waters, Florida and southern California, bathers sometimes get a dermatitis which the natives call "salt water itch." It appears most often in the armpits, coming on at the same time on both sides. It is very unlikely that it is due to salt water alone. More probable is the explanation that it is due to some minute animal or tropical plant. The old timers and regular bathers are not so subject to it as the visitors who acquire it in about two to four weeks; this would make it look as if the regular bathers acquired an immunity.

The armpits are natural places for fungus infections to grow; the hair provides a good resting place for them; the situation is warm and moist, an ideal culture medium. As to prevention, soap and fresh water after the swim is the most natural and easiest effective remedy. Applications of 50 per cent alcohol and boric acid solution is a good routine for after bathing. The use of an oily application before bathing—olive oil, coconut oil or petrolatum—is a good protective device.

Treatment of "salt water itch" after it has occurred, with calamine lotion, salicylic acid ointment or ammoniated mercury ointment. If secondary infection has occurred, is reported to be successful. Keeping up our promise to underweights, here is another diet to help put on pounds:

Breakfast: Orange juice, oatmeal with cream; lamb chops; muffins; coffee with cream.

Mid-morning: A malted milk. Luncheon: Hamburger steak; stuffed baked potato; corn bread; butter; fruit salad; tea with cream.

Dinner: Roast beef; lima beans; bread with butter; ice cream; coffee with cream.

Evening: Ice cream soda. Value—4,200 calories.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
C. L.—Please answer if you can have whooping cough and not whoop. My little granddaughter has had a bad cough for about seven weeks, vomits, and it really seems like whooping cough, but there is no whoop.

Answer: The whoop of whooping cough is due to a spasm of the larynx after a prolonged spell of coughing so that the child sucks in the breath, making the characteristic noise. If this spasm is not present, there will be no whoop but there may be whooping cough just the same. A child who has been coughing for seven weeks and vomits is probably has whooping cough.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Remedial Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Feeding and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instruction for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only and then only through his column.

Who's talking through whose hat?

IN THE LAST FEW MONTHS, certain regular-priced gasolines have been implying that they will perform as well as our premium-priced gasoline, Gulf No-Nox. Actually, that is a long way from being true.

There are three methods most generally used to determine the anti-knock value of a gasoline. These tests are used by us, used by our competitors, and are recognized by everybody in the industry.

On these tests of quality made by an independent laboratory, the regular gasoline, which is making the most to do about being the equal of Gulf No-Nox, RATED 7 FULL POINTS BELOW GULF NO-NOX!

Even a 3-point difference in anti-knock rating is a noticeable difference. This 7-point difference is a BIG difference—gives Gulf No-Nox a major advantage in the high-compression engines you find in the newer cars.

Therefore, don't swallow it hook, line, and sinker, when someone tells you that his regular gas (however much it's been improved) is as good as improved Gulf No-Nox. It isn't. In gasolines, as in everything else, you get about what you pay for.

These facts aren't just paper facts. You can confirm them in your own gas tank. Next time—try just one tankful of No-Nox, and make up your own mind whether any regular gas, anywhere, is within shouting distance of it!

FREE—"21 Ways to Save Money."

This helpful booklet yours for the asking at your Good Gulf dealer's. Get yours, right away at the Sign of the Gulf Orange Disc!

NO REGULAR GASOLINE—NOT ONE—CAN COMPARE WITH GULF NO-NOX!

Your Home Remodeling Is Made Easy By The Damascus Lumber Company

MODERN PORCH NOT EXPENSIVE

Addition to Home Available Without Large Outlay

A new porch can fulfill a variety of purposes, says Mr. Kohler of the Damascus Lumber Co., which is handling a large amount of residential and commercial building work now.

Mr. Kohler will provide plans and estimates for any type of building or remodeling. A telephone call to the Damascus Lumber Co. will arrange for a conference with Mr. Kohler or furnish information desired.

With a little thought, a modern porch can be the center of good-living. A porch should be a place to eat, to read, to entertain and even to sleep.

It is not necessary to build a completely new house to have a modern porch, Mr. Kohler says. One can be added to a home for little cost or the old one can be improved without a heavy expenditure. Mr. Kohler has been handling much of this type of work in recent months.

A porch should be as private as possible facing toward a garden, possibly. The family will feel more at ease using it if it is kept away from the source of most traffic past a home.

This part of a home is more useful for all functions and more convenient if it opens from several rooms. If it opens into a dining room or kitchen, it can serve as a summer eating place.

Edsel Ford Welcomes 28,000,000th Car

WHEN Edsel Ford (left), president of the Ford Motor Company, met Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York, the two settled down for a quiet chat. The place was the Executive Suite of the Ford Exposition at the New York World's Fair, and the occasion was Ford Day, in mid-June.

Six thousand Ford employees from all parts of the country gathered to celebrate Ford Day and the 28th birthday of the Ford Motor Company. Edsel Ford came from Dearborn to welcome the 28,000,000th Ford car, which had returned to

New York after a 13,000-mile good-will tour that took it to 17 states and to Mexico and Canada.

Confidence in the Ford Motor Company as a bulwark in national defense was voiced by several of the distinguished speakers. Said Harvey D. Gibson, chairman of the board of the Fair: "To me the arrival of this historic Ford car means a lot more than the fact that it is the 28,000,000th. If the Ford Motor Company can make 28,000,000 cars, then we have assurance that the company can build 28,000,000 of anything else we need to defend our country."

PONTIAC SALES BREAK RECORDS

Dealers Set High Figures In Both New and Used Car Deals

Deliveries of new Pontiac cars and of used cars by Pontiac dealers throughout the United States broke all records for the first 20 days of June, according to D. U. Bathrick, general sales manager.

The 20 day new car total of 14,346 units also is 266 cars greater than the total for the entire month of June, 1939. Bathrick pointed out. Second 10 day deliveries of new Pontiacs were 7665 which is a gain of 15 per cent over the first 10 days; 30 per cent ahead of the second 10 days of May and 68.9 per cent ahead of the second 10 days of June last year. This is a 20 per cent step up over the gains registered during the first 10 days from a year ago, and is almost 26 per cent better than gains that Pontiac has made during all of 1940 compared to 1939.

The ratio of unfilled orders on hand to those of a year ago made a further gain during the second 10 days and now stands at 4.9 times greater than they were on June 20, 1939.

Used car sales by Pontiac dealers like the Dunlap Motor Co., on E. Pershing st., put the total for the 20 day period at 23,794 which is 40.2 per cent ahead of the same 20 days of June last year. Used car inventories continued to decline as they have for the last five 10-day periods while the turnover of used cars increased to the point where all Pontiac dealers in the United States have only a 30 day combined stock on hand.

HOLIDAY CALLS FOR BEST TOGS

Trip to Paris Cleaners Will Refresh Summer Garments

The July 4th holiday is coming up this week and among the important requisites for the occasion is smart, fresh clothing.

That means clean, well-kept clothing. It's still possible to have that last-minute "brush-up" if you telephone the Paris Cleaners immediately.

Sports and other outdoor apparel will be in order and the Paris takes special pride in handling this type of work. You may be certain of having your summer whites in tip-top condition not only for the Fourth but for all the summer season if you call the Paris periodically.

Columbiana Class Will Meet July 10

COLUMBIANA, July 1 — The Towasi class of Presbyterian church will hold the monthly meeting Wednesday, July 10. This is one week later than usual due to the holiday Thursday.

Hostesses are planning the annual picnic for members and their families. The place will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Spiker announce the birth of a son Saturday afternoon at the North side unit of Youngstown hospital.

Gaylord Zellers accompanied friends from Cleveland for a week's trip to Canada where they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Mar-dorf.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo E. Holloway returned Sunday from a two weeks vacation in New York City and other eastern points.

The annual reunion of the families of the late Solomon Esterly will be held July 4 at the home of Mrs. Sue E. Boyce, Chester, W. Va.

Mrs. Clarence Sharits and daughter Ellen of Houston, Tex., are spending some time in the home of her father, Charles Hoskinson, Vine st. The trip was made by boat from Houston to New York and by motor to Columbiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mollenkopf spent the weekend at Lake Erie.

Miss Anna Exten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Exten, was among the graduates of Salem City Hospital Nurses training school who, received diplomas Thursday.

Donald M. Nelson

Former Sears Roebuck executive, Donald M. Nelson was named coordinating agent for all federal purchasing in the U. S. defense program. He will work with the National Council of Defense.

The Modern Thing in Streamlining

These three star swimmers of the Washington Athletic Club, Seattle, know what streamlining and Fluid Drive mean in terms of speed. That's why they are posed on the hood of 1940 Chrysler. They are Irma Schoenauer, Nina McQuiston and Dorothy Daniels, all members of Coach Ray Daugherty's relay team.

ICE CREAM PART OF JULY 4 MENU

Old Reliable Suggests You Place Your Order Early

Picnics will be the order of the day for many on the Fourth of July and certainly there is no finer way for a family and friends to enjoy this holiday.

There is something about eating those specially prepared foods out in the open which appeals to all of us, and to top off such a meal with ice cream leaves everyone in the best of spirits.

The Old Reliable dairy on W. Pershing st. is prepared to meet your requirements in the way of delicious ice cream, a product containing more food value than most ice cream on the market, made with the most modern equipment.

So, for that picnic, phone 4971 and place your order as soon as possible. They carry a variety of flavors.

Urges Tire Check Before Smash-Up, Possible Injury

The inexperienced motorist often makes the mistake of waiting too long to renew the tires on his automobile.

Because a tire apparently is delivering service, he is inclined to leave it alone. This may be all right until the weakened tire faces a test which it cannot take. There is a blowout and possibly injury.

On the other hand, the experienced motorist realizes a tire can do just so much. So, when the tread has been worn off and the rubber is nearing the fabric content, he has it replaced. He does not wait for an accident to jolt him into realization that tires wear out.

He does not find it difficult to replace tires when a "service like that of the Martin Tires Sales Co. is available. Either a new tire or a retread—in either case he's assured of many more thousands of miles of service and safety for himself and his family. If you're in the tire market, stop in at the Martin office and let them explain their products and merchandising plan.

SEATTLE, Wash. — A Seattle slaughterhouse uncovered a miniature bonanza when butchers came up with a 1928 penny from the brain of a Holstein cow. It was found in the left front section of the brain and was believed to have been "sniffed up" by the cow while the animal was grazing.

CHECK CAR FOR VACATION NEED

Smith Garage Offers Outstanding Values In New, Used Autos

"With the vacation season at hand, motorists will be interested in checking up their cars and determining whether they are in condition to meet the demands of a trip, long or short, this summer," says Don Smith of the Smith Garage on Third st., local Chrysler-Plymouth dealer.

"In planning the vacation trip, it may be well to give careful consideration to the purchase of a more modern car than the one you are driving. No matter how good a car might have been originally, the time is bound to come when it would be cheaper to trade it in than to get the ultimate mile out of it. The extra expense of repairs and operation in an obsolete model will more than offset the cost of a newer one. And, of course, the real satisfaction of any trip must be based on the certainty that the car is going to stand up."

"Never before have we offered a finer selection of used cars than right now. So if the budget does not permit the purchase of a 1940 model, one will surely find something entirely satisfactory within reach of his purse. New car business has been so good this year that we are in position to give very advantageous deals on used cars. With the new models due in a few months, we naturally will need room and are offering used cars at real sacrifice prices. No matter how old the car may be that you are driving, it will serve as the basis of some kind of a deal—one that will greatly benefit the owner."

Mr. Smith Goes to Town

Smith's just an ordinary fellow, like you or me—wife, two kids, good job. Sundays they would all pile in the family bus and just "go" unless—

"There's something wrong with the car!" Those words meant dullness, sitting around the house. They also meant money out of Smith's pocket.

But one look at the price tag stopped him. He drove it around the block a few times—motor purred like a pussy cat. Guaranteed, too.

Mr. Smith really went to town. And the money he saved! Got a swell allowance on the old bus—no more costly repair bills, no more worries.

The Smith family doesn't worry about Sundays any more. Their Grade Used Car is a sure performer. And how they all love it!

Man Who Helped Design
Argonne Cemetery Is Iowa Professor

AMES, Ia.—The man who designed and helped build the Argonne cemetery in France as America's war memorial is now a professor at Iowa State College—far removed from the time when he directed the digging of graves and placing of numerous crosses.

He is Phillip Elwood, who served in the World War as an artillery captain in the 3d Corps.

Back in 1919 a telegram which would have sent him home was intercepted by his commanding officer. And today, Elwood admits he's glad it happened.

After the war the French government dedicated to the United States about 100 acres of land near the village of Romagne. Three months later the barren, shell-torn field was transformed into a green-carpeted area. When Gen. John J. Pershing arrived to dedicate the memorial in May, 1919, he found a little American flag and a spray of evergreen beside each cross.

German Prisoners Aided

Elwood had directed the work of 5,000 German prisoners who dug the graves and planted crosses in the area where 22,000 American soldiers were buried.

Of the 22,000 soldiers buried, according to Elwood, about 7,000 have been returned to the United States through provision of Congress.

Elwood says he doesn't know how much the cemetery cost, because labor and material were available for the taking. He obtained wire and angle irons for fences from a German supply dump at Briailles, several miles away. Sawmills were set up, and soldiers and prisoners searched the country for lumber to build coffins.

Aerial Combat Kindergarten

Inside a full-scale cutaway model of a twin-motored plane, cadets at Randolph Field, Tex., "West Point of the Air," are shown how to handle flight controls before going aloft. Uncle Sam's new defense program calls for training 7,000 of these pilots annually for the Army Air Corps.

Identification and burial of the dead was conducted during the war by the graves registration service of the quartermaster corps. The burial parties followed advancing troops and immediately after scratched the names of their organization from the tags to keep the information from the enemy.

Identification tags, one of which was buried with the body. The other was attached to a temporary cross. Difficulties arose later, however. Hundreds of men overseas had the same names. Also before going to the front lines the soldiers often scratched the names of their organization from the tags to keep the information from the enemy.

MICHIGAN TRIES TO BATTLE ISMS

Educational Safeguards For Defense Will Be Used

LANSING, Mich.—Realizing the importance of Michigan's mass production industries in the national defense program, state officials are taking precautionary steps against sabotage and are attempting to build up an educational barricade against totalitarian ideologies. These moves have been accompanied by admonitions from Michigan's 81-year-old governor, Luren D. Dickinson, and the state police commissioner, Oscar G. Olander, against war hysteria.

Olander has formed a special squad which, in cooperation with the Federal Bureau of Investigation and local officials, runs down every one of the scores of "subversive activities" complaints that reach his office every day. Most of them are baseless, he said. Nevertheless, he has asked for authority to hire 100 additional men to investigate them because he is convinced that there are agents of foreign governments operating in Michigan against the best interests of the United States.

Gov. Dickinson did not grant the request immediately but said that if the need becomes urgent he would act quickly.

Calm Down Alarmists
"We want people to keep their heads and not to get alarmed because someone speaks with a German accent," the police commissioner said. "The Dickinson added that he hoped there would be a moratorium on the issuance, by lesser state officials, of 'inflammatory statements.'"

Nearly all of Michigan's large cities—Detroit, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Lansing, Bay City, Flint, Battle Creek, Jackson, Muskegon, Kalamazoo and Monroe—have extensive machine shop facilities and in many of them munitions are being manufactured now.

It is from these industrial centers, Olander said, that most of the complaints against the activities of suspected foreign agents come. In addition, Olander is concerned over protection for the locks between Lakes Superior and Huron at Sault Ste. Marie. Through them pass the great bulk of the nation's iron ore production.

State Educators Called
Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, has issued a call for a statewide conference of educators in Lansing this summer to launch a counter-offensive educational program against totalitarian ideologies. Emphasis in school curricula hereafter, Elliott said, will be placed on "American citizenship" courses.

Elliott said he believed one of the reasons Norway, Belgium and Holland fell so easily before the German war machine was that the "democracies" did not realize what they were fighting for.

"I believe that the best defense against totalitarian ideology—the ideology which holds that the individual exists for the state instead of the state for the individual—is a thorough understanding of Americanism," he said.

Candidate in Court
Joseph McWilliams of New York is shown above as he appeared in Yorkville (New York City) court to answer charges of using abusive language "tending to create a breach of peace." McWilliams, an anti-Jewish candidate for congress, is alleged to have made a speech in which he attacked Jewish leaders to attack him and also called Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York a Jew.

Theatre Attractions

Edward G. Robinson and Ann Sothern in "Brother Orchid," showing at the State theater Tuesday and Wednesday.

Edward G. Robinson is back in his bullet-proof vest in "Brother Orchid," which shows at the State Tuesday and Wednesday, with Ann Sothern, Humphrey Bogart, Allen Jenkins, Donald Crisp, Ralph Belamy.

"Little Caesar" goes in for class in a big way in this satire on a gangster who decides to retire on his profits and acquire some culture. A sucker for every phony scheme, he returns from his trip to Europe to recoup his lost fortune, only to find that time has marched on without him, and his former henchman, played by Bogart, is "boss". His girl friend, as dumb as she is beautiful, thinks the two should be friends and leads him into a trap where Bogart and his boys try to make permanent the gangster's retirement.

Wounded, he escapes and wakes up in a monastery where he learns the monks raise flowers for money to help the poor. He takes to orchids because "they got class" and is happy there until he finds the monks can't sell their flowers because they don't belong to the protective association which he started and which his henchman is carrying on.

So "Brother Orchid" leaves his haven and seeks out the world again, until he straightens matters out.

Robinson, whose "Ehrlich" last season was one of the outstanding performances of the year, does a grand job as the gangster who goes gunning for culture. The entire cast, which includes also Paul Guilfoyle and Granville Bates (the judge in "My Favorite Wife") is excellent.

Concluding at the State tonight is "Safari", with Madeleine Carroll, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Lynne Overman.

SALEM POLO CLUB TOPS NORTH HILLS IN RAIN

SALEM RIDERS' SIXTH-PERIOD UPRISING WINS

Score 5 Goals In Final Chukker to Defeat Pittsburgh, 10-7

A five-goal uprising in the sixth chukker boosted the Salem Polo club to a 10-to-7 victory over Pittsburgh North Hills in a thrilling Penn-Ohio league game at Wexford, Pa., yesterday.

The two teams played the last two chukkers of the game in a steady downpour of rain, waging an exciting battle on slippery, oil-soaked turf. Heavy showers halted the game for 15 minutes after the end of the second chukker, but the players decided to continue despite the treacherous condition of the field which had been soaked with oil before the game to keep down dust.

Third Win
The triumph was the Salem club's third in four games this season and its second in the Penn-Ohio league.

The Salem riders' earned the victory the hard way, coming from behind in the last chukker to cop the decision.

Trailing by one goal 6 to 5, as they went into the final period, the Salem club closed with a rush, out-scoring North Hills five goals to one to win going away.

The score was tied twice in the sixth chukker, once at 6-6 and again at 7-7, before the Salem riders moved safely out in front.

Jim Pidgeon, who for the first time this season began to show his old scoring power, Tony Sheen and J. B. (Pete) Votaw led the Salem club's sixth-chukker rally, taking advantage of practically all of their scoring opportunities while playing a brilliant defensive game to check North Hills' threats.

Pidgeon and Sheen each counted two goals in the sixth-period spurt, while Votaw tallied one.

Pidgeon's last-period performance climaxed a brilliant game in which he scored six goals to pace the Salem attack. His accurate hitting accounted for one goal in the first chukker, two in the third period, one in the fourth and two in the fifth.

Hard Pill To Swallow
The Salem riders' sixth-chukker spurt was a hard pill for the North Hills club to swallow, especially so because the Pennsylvanians had held the lead for four chukkers and appeared destined to gain the victory.

North Hills moved to the front in the second chukker after both teams had scored two goals in the first period. The Pennsylvanians took a two-goal lead, 4 to 2, in the second period and were never headed until the sixth.

Salem sliced North Hills' lead from two goals to one in the third chukker, but remained one goal behind until the roaring sixth period when they uncorked their five-goal spurt.

WELFARE CLUB GAINS VICTORY

Salem Team Beats East Liverpool Club, 1-0 In Softball Tilt

The Salem China Welfare Club pushed over one run in the sixth inning to defeat an East Liverpool softball team, 7 to 0, in the first game of a double-header at Centennial park yesterday.

Pitcher Ritchie of the Welfare Club gave up three hits in shutting out the East Liverpool team. He struck out eight batters.

Shortstop Morrison drove in the winning run in the sixth inning, his triple scoring McCoy.

Seven errors proved costly to the Welfare Club in the second game which the Salem team lost, 8-2. Summary of the first game follows:

JUDGE WINNER IN GOLF PLAY

Cops First Place In 18-Hole Tournament At Salem Club

Twenty-one golfers competed in an 18-hole medal play tournament at the Salem Golf club yesterday with Vincent Judge carrying off top honors with a net 74. Judge's card was 84-10-74.

Dr. Richard Harwood had the lowest gross score of the tournament, firing an 81, but his handicap of five strokes was too low to enable him to beat out Judge for first place.

Dr. Harwood tied for second honors with F. P. Mullins and John H. Gonda. Cards turned in by the three golfers who tied for second place were: Dr. Harwood, 81-5-76; Mullins, 94-18-76; Gonda, 94-18-76.

Behind the second place trio came Robert Campbell with 86-9-77.

PHILLIS DOES IRON MAN JOB

Pitches Driscollwood To Victory In Two Games Sunday

An "Iron-man" performance by Pitcher Phillis featured the Driscollwood Kennels' two wins over Shinn's Lodge softball team in a double-header at the Driscollwood field Sunday.

The Kennels made a clean sweep of the twin bill, winning 7-6 and 5-4 with Phillis going the full route on the mound in both games, allowing 15 hits.

The second game went three extra innings with the Kennels scoring the winning run in the last half of the 12th frame.

SELECT TEAMS FOR ALL-STAR BASEBALL TILT

Managers Overlook Many Of Year's Biggest Playing Stars

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK, July 1—No matter who makes the selections, surprises never cease in the annual choosing of sides for baseball's big All-Star game.

The major leagues took the task away from the fans and turned it over to the managers, but the National and American league squads announced today for the eighth annual spectacle July 9 at Sportsman's park, St. Louis, are bound to make a lot of the fans wonder why.

There is no question that Bill McKeechie and Joe Cronin, the respective pilots, will have capable crews to send into action as well as adequate reserves.

Doerr Missing
But some of the people who have been steamed up about Bobby Doerr of the Boston Red Sox being the best second baseman in the game at present are going to be disturbed by his absence.

The American league managers, who evidently ignored both the team standings and the batting averages, selected seven of the fall-carrying New York Yankees for the squad. They overlooked Rip Rad-cliff of the St. Louis Browns, who as of Saturday was tied for the league lead in batting, and Barney McCosky of Detroit, who is playing magnificent ball in the Tigers' outfield and is third among the league's hitters.

The National league managers passed over the senior circuit's three leading pitchers, rated on won and lost records. Outfielder Dixie Walker of Brooklyn, who is second among the hitters, and all of the loop's rookie talent.

All eight managers in each league participated in the selections.

The National league reelected 15 of the 25 players who represented it unsuccessfully a year ago in Yankee stadium, chose four stars who had been named in other seasons but missed out last year, and gave a half dozen players their first assignments to the big attraction.

This latter group included Pitchers Hugh Mulcahy and Kirby Higbee and Third Baseman Mer-larry May of the Phillies. Pitcher Larry French of the Chicago Cubs. Second Baseman Pete Coscarart of Brooklyn and Outfielder Max West of the Boston Bees.

Hubbell Back

One choice certain to meet with approval was Carl Hubbell, the southpaw star of the New York Giants who was named to every all-star squad except last year's.

The National league will have no member who has appeared in every game. Gabby Hartnett, who was one of the catchers for the first six years and the manager last July, dropped out this time.

The American league still will have one charter player, durable Jimmie Fox of the Boston Red Sox on the base.

On the National league team will be no less than four players who have participated in every All-Star game except the first—Bill Herman of the Cubs, Arky Vaughan of the Pirates, Joe Medwick of the Dodgers and Mel Ott of the Giants—while the American league will have just one seven-year man, Bill Dickey of the Yankees.

The American league turned to new faces this time, dropping Lefty Gomez of the Red Sox. Lefty Gomez of the Yankees and Charley Gehring of Detroit for the first time since the game was conceived. The junior circuit will have nine players making their all-star debut, four of them from the Cleveland Indians.

Boudreau and Mack

The rookie infield sensations, Lou Boudreau and Ray Mack were named along with Pitcher Al Mil-lar and Ken Keltner from the Tribe. The other newcomers will be Pitchers Dutch Leonard of Washington, and Monte Pearson of the Yankees and Outfielders Charley Keller of the Yanks and Lou Finney and Ted Williams of the Red Sox.

The American league will have a big edge in pitching strength on the basis of games won and lost. The composite record of its staff of seven pitchers is 56 and 27 while the National league hurlers have a combined mark of 50 and 39.

The junior circuit will have a similar superiority in batting power.

Only one of the National league outfielders, Joe Moore of the Giants, was batting over .300 on Saturday, while all but one of the American league's gardeners were above that figure.

"Spoiled Girl" by

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE
Gabrielle felt rested when she was finished at the beauty salon. She had captured her dream again, her dream of being reunited with Peter. It seemed she could always do this when she was alone. Others around, making conversation, seemed to dispel the dream, and left her feeling unsure of herself too.

She found Helen waiting in the reception room of the beauty salon when she came out.

"Darling, your hair looks beautiful," said Helen. "Let's see your nails."

Gabrielle extended slim creamy tan hands, their almond shaped nails smooth and gleaming.

"They're lovely," said Helen. "Later they went to a small tea-room."

Helen said suddenly: "I'm going to miss you something dreadful, Gabrielle."

"Are you, Mother? Well, if I stay, you'll have a nice place to visit—and if I don't, well, you won't have to miss me." She laughed whimsically, a queer light in her eyes.

Helen looked across at her inquiringly.

"I was just thinking, Mother, that I feel exactly like a bride. Much more so now than I did when I married Peter."

Helen smiled: "I have a present for you, dear."

"You gave it to you tonight, dear—before you pack."

"Nice. Thank you, Mother."

They reached home in time for dinner, and found Sam in the front room by the fire, smoking and reading.

"Come and help us carry in the bundles, Daddy!" called Gabrielle.

"I'll help your mother, Gaby. Long distance has been trying to get you, I guess Peter's calling—anyway it's New York."

"Oh, thank you, Daddy." A happy smile flooded her face.

As Sam went out the front door she went to the telephone.

She had to wait for some little time and, while they were checking the call, doubts began to assail her.

Oh, supposing Peter said it was inconvenient for him to meet her, or to see her at all just now? Her heart pounded when she heard the local operator talking with the one in the metropolis.

When it was relayed to her that they were unable to locate their party just at this time, Gabrielle was already in the depths of despair, for she heard every word which passed between them.

They told her they would call her later.

She heard her mother saying to Violet that they were ready for dinner any time; remarking to Sam what a nice day they had in the city; and heard Violet banging something against the stove as she took up the meal. She heard all this but she wasn't conscious of it; all she she could think of consciously was that perhaps Peter didn't want her to come.

At the dinner table she talked automatically, ate the food which her father had placed upon her plate, but her ears were alert for the ring of the telephone. When Violet was serving the dessert the phone rang, long and loud.

"Excuse me, please," Gabrielle said, laying her napkin on the table and rising quickly. "That's probably for me!"

She waited impatiently after the operator announced that she had New York on the wire. Finally she heard Peter's voice and it sounded quite as excited as she felt.

"Gaby? When are you leaving, dear?" he asked.

Gabrielle caught and put away the dear for future enjoyment.

"Tomorrow, Peter. Will you meet me?"

"I'll meet you if I have to cut rehearsal," he promised. "I've a new song I've been saving, Gaby!"

"One of your own?"

"Yes; one I've been saving until you could come!"

Gabrielle was enchanted....

During the time she had been at the telephone Helen and Sam had sat quietly with their dessert untouched. Gabrielle noticed the moment she re-entered the dining room. She smiled at them, not knowing that her eyes were shining with a radiance that told of her happiness.

"Peter?" asked her mother, unnecessarily.

"Yes; and oh, Mother, he's going to meet me, and he has a new song which he's been saving until I could come!"

"Well, well," said Sam, taking up his fork in preparation for the deep dish apple pie and cheese which was before him, "it's certainly good to see you looking happy again, Gaby!"

Violet came in with fresh coffee and, when she filled Gabrielle's cup, she snickered.

"Now—what are you giggling at, Violet?" demanded Gabrielle.

"Just you-all, Miss Gabrielle. Be-foh dat phone rang you-all jus' ate lak lak lak, didn't you—all—now you-all eat lak lak lak. Yes, m'am!" She giggled again as she ambled awkwardly toward the door.

The following day when the train had pulled away from the Tecumseh station she breathed a sigh of relief. At last she was on her way to Peter.

Nearing her destination her dreams became entangled with doubts. What if Peter was just being kind—trying to show her he bore her no hard feelings? And so she tortured and delighted herself by turns.

She opened the new overnight case, which had been her mother's parting gift. It matched the larger one that she had purchased some time before, and her mother had fitted it out with the toilet articles she always used. Helen had put some other things in it too; a lovely gown of pale pink satin and mules and housecoat of peacock blue brocade satin.

Gabrielle smiled with memories of Helen and Sam. No girl had finer parents, she thought, smiling to herself; no, not even if they had spoiled her.

But Peter would see how she'd changed! She knew she could make him the right sort of wife now; and oh—wouldn't she love being his wife again. Someone had said that a person didn't really value a thing until it was denied them, and she knew this had been true in the case of Peter.

Oh, she did hope Peter wasn't just being nice to her....

By the time she arrived at the terminal, however, she had briskly banished all such unhappy meditations. She felt herself trembling with anticipation as she stepped from the Pullman.

It was an attractive picture she made as she stood in the crowd, her eyes brilliant, her yellow hair peeking in soft curls from the sides of her small brown felt hat. Her suit was of rich brown tweed with flecks of gold, and her crepe blouse was pale yellow, matching her hair. Her lips were tawny red and slightly parted.

Then, suddenly, she saw Peter making his way toward her. His head was bare and his blue black hair was shining in the pale November sunlight like something directly out of her dreams. His blue eyes were gleaming with—yes, surely it was happiness!

There were many people around them as he took her hand. Then he directed the redcap to a waiting taxicab. Peter seemed very efficient and he took her arm possessively and ushered her into the cab.

He gave an address and got in beside her. The cab immediately swung in to line and they were enmeshed in the traffic.

Looking at Peter she experienced a genuine feeling of pride. His expertly tailored clothing, even his manners were polished and refined. New York and success had certainly changed Peter! She hoped they hadn't changed him in all ways, Darling Peter!

"Now, how are you, Gaby?" he demanded, turning his radiant blue eyes upon her, seeming to take in everything about her.

"I'm perfectly swell, Peter. And you?" She smiled at him.

"Gee! If I felt any better I couldn't live!" he cried.

"You really do look it too, Peter," she told him.

He said, becoming serious: "It's awfully nice having you here, Gaby."

"It's awfully nice being here, I assure you," she said.

She hesitated, then said quickly, turning her eyes away:

"Peter, I thought maybe you didn't want me to come—I invited myself."

"Oh, that," He spoke unashamed. "That was because of your money, Gaby."

"My money," she said flatly.

"What do you mean?"

"Well, Tony and I have been corresponding since I left—though I told him not to tell you. So, I heard about you getting your Uncle's money. I certainly didn't want any rich girl. I never did, if you remember! So—well I thought you'd probably prefer the money to me."

She stared at him, puzzled. "And when I wrote you that I'd given it to the folks, you changed?"

"That's right," he admitted, smiling at her boyishly.

"Oh, Peter, how very funny of you," she said; but there were tears in her voice.

"It's all in the way a person looks at it, I guess," he said. "Anyway, I'm making scads of money myself, at the present."

This might have sounded quite braggadocio from some people, reflected Gabrielle, but coming from Peter it merely sounded like he were sure of himself.

He glanced at his watch, then looked at her quickly.

"We're almost there, Gaby. I'm awfully sorry but I've a rehearsal and I'll have to leave you at my apartment for over an hour."

She smiled at him not fully aware of what he was saying. To be here with him again was enough; why worry about details?

"Then you won't mind?" he asked. "I'll hurry back for you. We go on at six."

"Your broadcast, you mean?"

"Yes" there was a ring of excitement to his voice. "Oh, Gaby! It's what I've always dreamed of! A honey of an orchestra, a coast to coast hookup, my songs selling—and you!"

"Then you really weren't just being kind in asking me here?"

"Huh, kind to myself! Everything's perfect now. Here's your ticket, Gaby."

She took it and examined it with an expression of awe. He watched her, grinning.

"I still get an awful kick out of it myself," he admitted boyishly.

"I should think you would," she said. "And Peter, I think I know now how the fond mother of a successful child must feel!"

"Proud of me?"

"So awfully proud."

"Here we are," he said, as the driver brought the cab to a standstill. "Thought you'd rather stay here, rather than go to a hotel—at least for now."

"Heavens! This looks like a hotel," she remarked, as she got out.

When he had let her in, he turned apologetically, saying:

"I'll have to scram, Gaby. I'll barely make it as it is. Will you make yourself comfortable until I get back? I hate leaving you!"

Impulsively, Gabrielle leaned forward and kissed Peter lightly on the lips.

"Run along, Peter. I'll be perfectly at home!"

"Swell," he said, but she thought he looked startled. "See you soon, then. Bye!"

The door slammed and he was gone.

Special Shoes Worn

Ordinary shoes and boots are banned, as nails might cause a spark capable of blowing the whole place sky high. Special boots of rubber and leather, made without a piece of metal, put on inside to prevent possibility of small particles of gravel adhering to the soles, take the place of ordinary footwear. Outer garments are shed and heavy cloaks and hoods of a felt like material, actually made of silk, are worn. In some cases gloves are added, for certain types of explosives cause dangerous skin diseases. Shower baths are compulsory for those coming from the handling rooms.

Spread over 126 acres, the magazine consists of dozens of small red brick buildings, each surrounded by 20-foot concrete slabs, called "flash walls" and placed around the buildings like huge dominoes. Corners are unjoined, the principle being that in event of an explosion in one of the buildings, its force would be broken by these massive guards. A solid wall would be blown to bits, but the loosely connected units allow escape vents.

In one building there is a gleaming white laboratory, ruled by a professional pharmacist. Here are tested all types of explosive. Laboratory tests are made periodically to determine if deterioration is present.

The crown jewels are guarded with casualness compared with the vigilance that surrounds the magazine.

MUNITION WORK DANGERS CITED

No Metal, Not Even Tacks In Shoes Permitted In Plants

WITH THE CANADIAN DEFENSE FORCES ON THE WEST COAST—Somewhere along Canada's lower west coast—exact location is an official secret—is a veritable storehouse of destruction. Here are stored in vast quantities innumerable missiles of death, shells and explosives for the guns of Canada's army, navy and air force.

Explosives are delicate things and vigilance is strict, for the penalty of carelessness may be disasters. All men employed in the magazine must submit to a search for matches and smoking materials before entering. In fact metal of any sort on the person of those actually handling the explosives is forbidden and must be removed.

All officers and men are classified as "clean" and "dirty," which isn't to be taken literally. If a person is classified as "dirty" it merely means he's improperly dressed for handling explosives. An employee arriving in ordinary military or naval uniform is "dirty," and must change to other garb.

Special Shoes Worn

Ordinary shoes and boots are banned, as nails might cause a spark capable of blowing the whole place sky high. Special boots of rubber and leather, made without a piece of metal, put on inside to prevent possibility of small particles of gravel adhering to the soles, take the place of ordinary footwear. Outer garments are shed and heavy cloaks and hoods of a felt like material, actually made of silk, are worn. In some cases gloves are added, for certain types of explosives cause dangerous skin diseases. Shower baths are compulsory for those coming from the handling rooms.

Spread over 126 acres, the magazine consists of dozens of small red brick buildings, each surrounded by 20-foot concrete slabs, called "flash walls" and placed around the buildings like huge dominoes. Corners are unjoined, the principle being that in event of an explosion in one of the buildings, its force would be broken by these massive guards. A solid wall would be blown to bits, but the loosely connected units allow escape vents.

In one building there is a gleaming white laboratory, ruled by a professional pharmacist. Here are tested all types of explosive. Laboratory tests are made periodically to determine if deterioration is present.

The crown jewels are guarded with casualness compared with the vigilance that surrounds the magazine.

MONTPELLIER, Calif.—The "Little Red School House" of this city, which has graduated classes for the past 60 years, closed with the graduation of this year's class. There were only three members and the board of education decreed its demise for lack of students.
